

SILBERSCHMIDT IN STRONG DEFENSE DENIES CHARGES

Former La Crosse Brewer Says
Prairie du Chien Plant
Complied With Law

TELLS OF POSSIBILITY OF FERMENTATION AFTER SALE

William Bronson Says Dry
Agent Offered Him a Drink

MADISON, Wis.—Louis Silberschmidt, president of the Prairie du Chien Brewing company, has not made or sold beer containing more than one-half of one per cent alcohol since prohibition became effective, he declared on the stand in his own defense in federal court.

Silberschmidt, his 19-year-old son, Fred, and Lloyd F. Cava, former fireman and engineer at the Silberschmidt brewery, made strong witnesses for the defense as the case neared the jury.

That Thomas F. Mahoney, one of the four prohibition agents who visited the brewery last December, told Silberschmidt "It's none of your business we're doing this," when the brewer protested taking of samples of beverages in unwashed bottles, was charged by all three witnesses.

Cava, who is commander of the American Legion post in Prairie du Chien, and young Silberschmidt testified that the bottles were not washed before the samples were taken.

Strong Defense

The defense, conducted by Attorney Ralph Jackman, sought to prove the possibility of fermentation of "near-beer" after being placed in the bottles, through the presence of yeast or other "live" material. The brewing company, it was declared, made both a malt and a syrup near-beer, the latter of which was subject to second fermentation if put into a dirty bottle.

A serious blow, it was said, was given to the government's case when Silberschmidt and his son, Frederick, testified that fermentation could take place after sale, either by the beverage being kept in a warm place or the presence of yeast caused by improper cleaning of containers. Both testified that the bottles used to hold the samples of liquor taken by the federal agents were not washed.

Louis Silberschmidt was led by Attorney Jackman through his entire 31-year career in the brewing business, bringing out the fact that he was a graduate of two brewery schools, former employee of Pabst's and for many years brew-master for the John Gund Brewing company, La Crosse, before going into business for himself at Prairie du Chien. He took a special course in the manufacture of non-alcoholic beverages in 1918, he declared, and visited many big breweries of the country to learn their methods after prohibition became effective.

Tested Beverages

He tested all beverages himself with an ebullimeter after it was de-alcoholized and prepared for market, he testified, and if it showed more than the lawful alcohol content diluted it or boiled it over. He described the entire process of making beer.

The beverage sampled by the prohibition agents in his racking room was not ready for market, he claimed, having been drawn off from the tank to make way for a new brew and had not been tested at the time, as the ebullimeter, which was exhibited in court, was out of order.

Both near beer and real beer have a flat taste unless charged with carbonic acid gas, he told the jury.

John Renk, assessor of Prairie du Chien and former bartender for William Garrity, a soft drink dealer, also testified for the defense at the morning session.

Attempts of counsel to discredit the testimony of federal prohibition agents who visited Prairie du Chien last December were partially blocked in federal court Monday when the defense of the Prairie du Chien Brewing company, charged with manufacture and sale of real beer, was opened.

Objections of U. S. District Attorney W. H. Dougherty to questions asked of a witness by Attorney Ralph Jackman regarding the conduct of the four federal agents were sustained by Judge C. Z. Luse in several instances.

Bronson on Stand

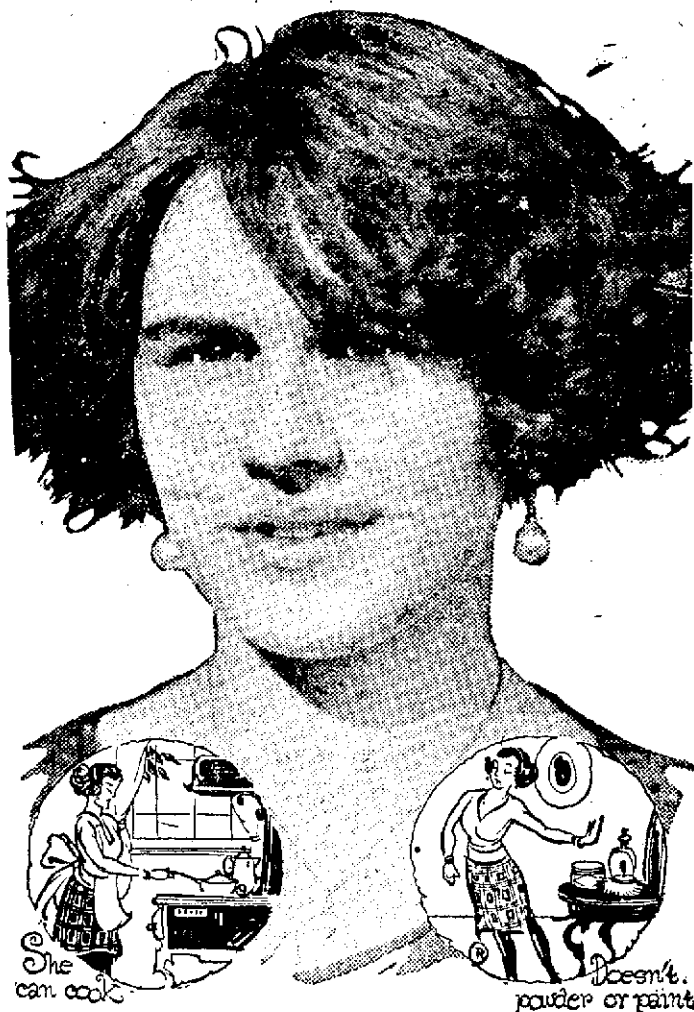

William Bronson, restaurant keeper, testifying for the defense, was given a rigid cross examination by Mr. Dougherty after he had declared one of the federal men offered him a drink while they were eating in his establishment.

Fred Hammerly, chairman of the Crawford county board, was the first defense witness called. He declared

MABELLE WOODLAND

Gaze on a real "Flapper type," all who have puzzled over the 1932 addition to feminine pulchritude. A committee of distinguished artists selected 18-year-old Mabelle Woodland of Swampscott, Mass., as the "Typical American Flapper" from thousands of photographs submitted in the contest of the Flapper Magazine. The prize winner upsets lots of flapper gossip. She shuns powder and paint! She is a good housekeeper—and likes to cook! And what is more, she goes to bed at nine and gets up at six!

Louis Silberschmidt, president of the brewing company, has a generally good reputation.

The government closed its case following the testimony of G. D. Williams, chemist, who declared beer samples taken from the brewery and from various soft drink parlors in Prairie du Chien contained from 2.51 to 3.12 per cent of alcohol by volume.

The same testimony was given by E. N. Reed, division chief of general prohibition agents, former associate director working with James A. Stone in Wisconsin.

The defense succeeded in having all information aside from identifying numbers and initials erased from the labels on the beer bottles subject to the jury as chief evidence of the prosecution. Typewritten labels placed on the bottles by Mr. Reed were ordered removed.

Instant Quaker Oats

Cooks to perfection in 3 to 5 minutes

No Other Oats

Cook so quickly as these

Now there's an Instant Quaker Oats—the quickest-cooking oats in the world. Your grocer has it as well as the regular. Instant Quaker cooks in 3 to 5 minutes, and cooks to perfection. No other style of oat flakes cooks nearly so quickly as that.

Now two things you want

Now Quaker Oats offer you two things you want. They offer a flavor which has won the world. Quaker Oats dominate wherever oat lovers live. Never was an oat dish made so delicious.

That's because we use queen grains only—just the rich, plump, flavy oats. All puny grains are discarded. We get but ten pounds of these luscious flakes from a bushel.

Now Instant Quaker offers that same super-quality, almost ready to eat. It is flaked from the same grains, but the oats are cut before flaking. They are rolled very thin and are partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And those small, thin flakes cook quickly.

Now you have your choice. Regular Quaker—the kind you have always known. Instant Quaker—the style that cooks so quickly. Get the style you prefer. But, for one or both of these reasons, insist on the Quaker brand.

STATE BOARD MEETS TO PICK NEW HEAD OF STOUT INSTITUTE

John Callahan Only Candidate Under Consideration for the Position

MADISON, Wis.—If John Callahan state superintendent of schools, is not chosen as head of the Stout Manual Training school at Menomonie, on Wednesday, no one will be elected. This is the situation that confronts the state board of vocational education, whose members went to Menomonie Tuesday night for the Wednesday meeting. Mr. Callahan is the only candidate who is being considered.

"There is just one obstacle in the way of the Callahan appointment. Who will Governor Blaine appoint to the position of state superintendent in case Mr. Callahan is chosen? Mr. Callahan is a friend of vocational education. If the members of the board could get any inkling of what Gov. Blaine has in his mind with reference to the position, the selection might be made at once. But Governor Blaine has been as silent as a sphinx. There may be a further delay in making the selection.

Several names have been mentioned about the vacant position. Successors to Mr. Callahan in case of his appointment: Carroll D. Pearce, president of the Milwaukee normal and Prof. Patzer of the same institution are both possibilities. J. T. Hooper superintendent of Ashland county, and formerly president of the County Superintendents' Association has also been suggested.

In case Mr. Callahan were selected, the vacancy is filled by appointment of the governor and at the spring election, a new superintendent would then be chosen for the balance of the term. The head of the Stout institution is paid $6,000 a year and a house to live in, while the state superintendent of schools receives a salary of $5,000 a year, the same as the other constitutional officers of Wisconsin.

Following are press notices commending Edward Rechlin, organist of Immanuel Lutheran church, New York, who will give a concert here at Our Savior's Lutheran church November 22:

"So masterly was the playing of this organist that the audience was spellbound, and at the conclusion of his program not a person left his seat, thus according him the most eloquent sort of encore possible."—Springfield, Ohio, Sun.

"Seldom is it that an entire musical program is carried through without a single number which fires or bores the listeners, but the large audience which nearly filled Hill auditorium, Thursday afternoon listened with manifest delight to just such a program.

"Edward Rechlin, organist of Immanuel Lutheran Church, in New York City, who gave the Thanksgiving recital, interpreted his varied numbers with an easy skill and grace, combined with warmth of tone and appreciation, that is not often encountered.

"Opening with J. S. Bach's mighty 'Prelude in B minor,' which was executed with remarkable technique and appeal, the program ran through a group of two chorale preludes which fairly thrilled with tender expression, followed by the brief, powerful

Sliding

FALL of the German cabinet, long predicted as the mark continued to slide and conditions in Germany became continually worse, has at length occurred. It marks dissatisfaction with the government of Chancellor Wirth, but evidence of the dispatches seem to indicate that it was not dissatisfaction with the reparations fulfillment policy of Wirth so much as lack of confidence in the ability of the chancellor himself. Rathenau was the strong man of the government of which Wirth was the titular head, and since the monarchists killed him, the administration has been wandering. It is not yet possible to say that Germany has rejected the fulfillment policy. Whether that will come depends upon the character of the new government which will be set up.

But this may be taken for granted, one may think—unless the allies consent to a rearrangement of the reparations terms which Germany can meet, the next government will be forced into a non-fulfillment policy. And since within the last few months Germany has at last begun reparations, in goods if not in cash, it would seem the better part of wisdom for the allies to relent. The trouble may prove to be that the reconstruction of France has been undertaken not by the German government but by German business men, so that the change of attitude, while real, has not changed the position formally held by the German and French governments. The politicians on both sides may refuse to count the Stinnes-Lu-Lurac agreement as altering the situation. Should this occur the hope which was felt that in the arrangement were the seeds of reconciliation might easily go a-glimmering.

If reparations were all that is sought in the dealings of the allies with Germany the business arrangement would be of paramount importance. Unfortunately, both sides are fishing for political advantages, at home and abroad. Each side strives to make national and personal advantage out of the negotiations, and there is too much evidence that these considerations are given more weight than actual reconstruction of war ravages. Meanwhile nothing gets done, and Germany's situation drifts from bad to worse. The collapse of the German government indicates that the breaking point is approaching. It was brought about by the socialists giving up hope of getting anywhere under the existing leadership. German bolshevism is hard to imagine, but it can be brought about if Germany is badgered long enough. Then the whole hope of reparations will blow up, for the reds would probably at once repudiate. And Europe would descend another step toward chaos and ruin.

His Motive

GOLD medals are being pinned on various corporation executives, for their good work in the Safety First movement. A specially large medal should be struck off for that powerful force, Human Selfishness. For selfishness is back of the Safety First movement, just as it is back of most other human activities. Corporations originally began campaigns against accidents, not primarily to save human life, but to save themselves against damage suits arising from the list of killed and injured. The humane motive is more existent now. Incidentally, corporations have discovered that $1 spent in preventing accidents often pays back $100 in lower accident claims. The safety movement is profitable, so it'll go on, as a simple matter of investment, long after all of us are dead.

In analyzing a situation or a suggestion of any sort a clear comprehension of the matter is more quickly arrived at by remembering that 99 times out of 100 some one is seeking a profit. When pulley wheels had spokes, people occasionally got caught in them and were either killed or crippled. Some one invented a solid fly-wheel, without spokes. It is easy to sell, on the simple argument that it will save human life and limb. But the selfish element crops out in the invention and manufacture of the improved, safeguarded wheel—for profit, a selfish motive. So it goes, all the way from a politician seeking office, down to the simple transaction of borrowing a lawnmower.

The presence of a selfish motive in nearly every possible situation and proposal should not make any one cynical. The very fact that the backers of the "thing" are after a profit makes its success more certain. Men do those things best, in which they have a chance to profit personally. It is the old law of achievement, working toward a definite goal—harvesting the crop from toil. The profit sought by the force of selfishness, of course is not always money. It may be fame or the inner satisfaction to one's vanity in having accomplished a good deed. Even charity, according to psychologists, usually is a manifestation of vanity—makes the giver "feel better."

Coue

COUE, French psychologist, springs into the limelight and attracts an enormous following. His theory, based on auto-suggestion, is that imagination is stronger than will power. Make a sick person imagine he's well and he'll become well, Coue reasons. So, if you want to attain health and happiness, Coue tells you to repeat over and over this formula: "Every day, and in every way, I get better and better." Some allopathic physicians are alarmed at the spread of Coue-ism, but needlessly so. Most of his converts are neurotics and his formula is better for them than this one which they formerly had: "Every day, and in every way, I get worse and worse."

A Deferred Excuse

BY A. W. PEACH
It was not a happy world to John Smear. He was trying to get his own breakfast. His housekeeper had been suddenly called away, and he was, as the expression has it, "on his own."

On his ascent from the cellar way he found the kitchen door had blown open, and wintry gusts of snow were cascading in. He closed the door and went about his labors, when an unmistakable "meow" warned him that he had a visitor. A scouting expedition revealed the visitor in his study, a kitten, decorated with a crimson ribbon. Evidently she had slipped in when the kitchen door blew open.

After some skillful stalking, which did not make his world any the happier, he cornered the kitten. He had reason to believe it belonged next door, so he decided to drop it over the fence. He performed this act with due ceremony and retreated to his belated breakfast. As he entered the kitchen his doebell rang and he hastened through the bungalow. "Nine o'clock," he groaned. "Twenty miles away!" he groaned.

He opened the door and found himself facing a slight figure muffled in a fur coat.

"I wonder if you have seen my kitten?" a sweet voice queried.

"I just deposited a feline of the description over the backyard fence," he replied with some coldness as he bettied the time of the year, the subject and a breakfastless man.

"Oh, you did!" the sweet voice said with increasing chill. "I thank you! But, if I am not mistaken, I just saw the kitten back of you!"

He started to say "Impossible," but remarked that nothing seemed to be impossible that morning; and it certainly was probable that the kitten, dropped over the fence, had found some familiar hole and tagged him straight into the house again.

He looked around, exploded a mild expletive in his mind, snatched the kitten from under a doavenport, suspended it by the nape of its neck and extended it to its mistress.

"You need not be quite so savage about it," she said as she received the kitten and turned sharply about and went down the snowy walks, her small overboots leaving quick no prints behind her.

He closed the door and retreated to his belated breakfast. As he ate, the unhappy world took on a rosier aspect, and he suddenly realized that the owner of the kitten also possessed brown eyes of a remarkable depth and beauty, and her eyebrows, and the curve of her cheeks above the fur.

"By Jove, she was downright pretty, and I'm just awake to the fact," he advised himself.

He was a newcomer in the neighborhood. Probably she lived in the attractive house just back of his on the other street. As for the kitten, he was willing to wager that his housekeeper had fed the youngster. "Now, if that kitten should come again I'll have an excuse for going over, and perhaps I can make a better impression than I did this morning," he thought to himself.

His made his usual morning trip to the postoffice and returned by way of the street on which the pretty owner of the kitten lived. Her home was attractive, there was no doubt about that. He wondered if he could catch a glimpse of her.

The effort to do so was fatal. The deceptive snow sheltered an icy stretch made more icy by the sliding feet of schoolboys, and John cascaded down the walk in front of her house with more speed than grace.

He gathered up the outspread limbs of his six feet of extensively proportioned and thought as he did so: "This is a grievous day. The Bible is right again. He was tempted and he fell!" "I'll make tracks for home and stay there!"

Once more in his snug and comfortable study he set himself to work, but it was of little use. In front of the page he saw brown eyes so deep his glance could not fathom them; the curve of rosy cheeks and the hint of heavy coils of brown hair under the fur cap.

"I am gone—there's no doubt of it!" Now, if that blessed kitten would

Sure Relief FOR INDIGESTION

OUT OUR WAY

"You weren't asleep," he communed with himself. He even made, to his disgrace, a number of trips to the kitchen door, but no kitten appeared. The afternoon wore on to evening. He prepared and made way with a very satisfactory repast and was smoking a pleasing cigar when his head jumped. At the kitchen door "meow" sounded, an unmistakable "meow." He rushed to the door and gathered to himself the kitten that was to be his furred excuse.

He donned the proper garb and started. He walked briskly until he came in front of her house. Then he paused, remembering. In the shadows he saw something dark, stretched across the walk where he had fallen. He dropped the kitten and bent over. It was the girl, unconscious from the force of her fall on the snow-covered, icy walk. He gathered her in his arms, thrilled at the sense of the firm, slight figure in his arms; then he went to the house.

Her father came to the door. There was excitement and confusion for a time, but fifteen minutes later the troubled waters were quiet and John was looking into brown eyes that regarded him oddly.

"I saw you tumble out there this afternoon and I was amused—there was so much of you!" she laughed. "And then I had to do it, too. It serves me right for being so disagreeable to you this morning."

"I'm afraid I should apologize. I was trying to get my own breakfast," he said.

She smiled. "That explains it: you are forgiven, and I suppose"—her brown, musing eyes were upon him—"I suppose because the kitten likes you so well I ought to."

John accepted the cigar her father offered him just then as he said with decision: "I agree with you, and I am certainly grateful to the kitten!"

REVIVE OLD RITES FOR ENGAGEMENT PARTY IN JAPAN

Shinto Ceremonies Used in Old Days Used in Solemnizing Regent's Engagement

TOKIO.—At the formal engagement ceremonies of the prince regent to Princess Nagako Kuni which were held in front of the shrine of the imperial palace, Shinto rites of old Japan were renewed.

The prince regent, clad in a yellowish-brown court dress and wearing a "crowning cherry crest" on the head, imparted the spirit of his engagement to the spirits of his ancestors. As for all great events concerning the imperial family of the nation, imperial messengers were dispatched to the Ise shrine where the Mirror of the Sun-goddess, ancestress of the imperial family, is kept; to the mausolea of Emperor Jimmu, the first ruler of Japan; and to the late Emperor Meiji at Monzenyama, for the sole purpose of announcing the event to them officially.

A representative of the emperor previously called at the palace of Prince Kuni, who had formally tendered his consent and received the customary presents of the emperor and empress to the parents of the future crown princess. These consisted of five rolls of silk, a cask of sake wine and a box containing two fish. This fish is an omen of happiness and a congratulatory present in itself.

Princess Nagako also was decorated with the first class order of the Sacred Treasure and the Hall of the Chrysanthemum of her palace received the prince regent's betrothal gift, a sword about a foot long, very simple but made by the most skillful sword maker of the country and decorated with the imperial crest.

From ancient times women of the samurai class or the nobility have owned a short sword as a symbol of chastity and a sign that they would choose death rather than dishonor. The gift of this sword holds the same significance as that of the engagement ring in foreign lands.

MADISON, Wis.—Sophie Sokolowski, Milwaukee, who was sentenced to one year in prison for severely beating her step-children, was granted a conditional pardon Wednesday by Governor J. J. Blaine. The woman is released under the same conditions that apply to paroled prisoners. She had been convicted on a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm.

A conditional pardon was also granted Charles Pierce of Dane county, convicted on May 25 this year of forgery and sentenced to a year in prison. Pierce is freed in order that he may support his wife and children who are said to be destitute.

Arthur Bruwer, Milwaukee, serving 35 years on conviction for a statutory offense, was denied a pardon by the governor.

ARMY DEVELOPING PILOTLESS PLANE WITH GOOD SUCCESS

WASHINGTON.—The pilotless army airplane, equipped with an automatic control device, said to be more accurate and dependable than any human pilot, has been developed to a point where it has made successful flights of more than ninety miles. It was announced Tuesday by the army air service.

The announcement declared the results produced after a long series of experiments constituted the "most important post-war development of the many novel ideas of new engines of war."

It was added that the experiments had shown it to be possible to "shoot down" enemy planes without pilots, at targets on or off the ground with astounding accuracy.

WAIT UNTIL NEXT MONTH TO ORDER AUTO LICENSES

MADISON, Wis.—Requests for 1923 automobile license plates will not be received by the secretary of state until after December 1. A. J. Coburn, in charge of the automobile division, announced Wednesday. He has been receiving orders for licenses which he says his department will not be in a position to handle until after the first of next month.

The 1923 Wisconsin plates have a white background with red numbers on them. Nearly 1,000,000 of them have been made by prisoners at the Waupun penitentiary for distribution during the coming year.

No change will be made by the 1923 legislature in the license laws for the coming year.

LIST OF AMERICA'S GOLD STAR WOMEN CONTAINS NAMES OF 161 SIX BADGERS ON ROLL OF HONOR

CHICAGO, Ill.—By the Associated Press.—One hundred and sixty-one names of "gold star women"—American girls who gave their lives in the world war—are found on the list made public by the Women's Overseas Service league, compiled as a feature to Armistice Day. Most of them rest under French soil, some in far-off Siberia, Armenia, China, and Manila, and others in England.

Plans for a perpetual testimonial to the former service women of the American Expeditionary Forces were announced in connection with the list, which will be presented at the league's convention here in June next year. Chicago headquarters of the league said in the announcement: "There is a handsome bronze tablet in the Army and Navy building in Washington, memorializing the mules and horses who died in the war, but nowhere in Washington is there found a record of the women who died—except army nurses—until we compiled it," declared Miss Helen C. Courtenay, originator of the memorial movement.

Jane A. Delano, beloved head of the Red Cross nursing service, who died at Savenay, April 15, 1919; Marion Crandell, Y. M. C. A. volunteer, killed by a German shell at Chalon-sur-Saone, March 26, 1917; Winona C. Martin, killed in a Paris hospital by a bomb from a German airplane, and Ruth Landon, by a shell in St. Germain church, in Paris; the Cromwell sisters, Dorothea and Gladys, of New York, who came to a tragic end at sea January 19, 1919, as they were about to set sail for home, and two other sisters, Viola and Ruth Lundholm of Petaluma, Calif., both army nurses, who died within six days of each other in October, 1917, in different hospitals in France, are among the outstanding names.

Notable Grace McBride and Edith Barnett are buried in Tumen and Tomsk, Siberia, and Edith Winchester in Erivan, Armenia. Their home addresses and those of Nina Louise Seymour, who died in Toulon, France, and Alice A. Ireland, in Base Hospital No. 101, and information of other women who died in the service is being sought by Miss Irene Givenwilson, curator of the American Red Cross museum in Washington, chairman of the memorial committee.

Following is the list of "gold star women." Cities named are those given as emergency addresses when the women sailed for France.

JURY IN WILDWOOD INN FRACAS GIVEN THE CASE AT NOON

Henry Cotton, charged with Assault With Intent to Murder, Denies He Slashed Neuman

Henry Cotton, negro, charged with assault with intent to commit murder, was tried in circuit court Wednesday morning. The case was given to the jury at noon.

Cotton, Lawrence Davenport, another negro, Alex Sherman and George Abraham, went to Wildwood Inn, on State road, Saturday night, October 14. There also was a crowd of Burlington ship employees there, among them Rudolph Neuman, Lawrence Mielke and a chap named Zintz. A fight took place in the barroom, which resulted in the arrests and some of the waiters being chased out of the saloon. Neuman was stabbed twice, once in the abdomen and in the back. Cotton was arrested and charged with the slaying.

Neuman, Mielke and Zintz testified to events leading up to the slaying on the witness stand in circuit court Wednesday morning. Davenport testified that he carried Cotton away from the scene of the fight and that Cotton had a knife.

Cotton, when put on the stand by John Doherty, attorney appointed for the defense by the court, denied that he had been in the fight or that he had a knife and stabbed Neuman.

William Schultz, said to have been interested in the operation of Wildwood Inn, testified as to the relative positions of the barroom, the pool room and yard in front of the inn, where the last of the melee was staged. Dr. L. D. Adams of St. Francis hospital who treated Neuman's wounds testified as to the nature of the cuts.

PAMPERIN FUNCTION A HANDSOME AFFAIR TUESDAY AFTERNOON

THE ARTISTIC card room of Eloise hall was the scene of a delightful formal reception Tuesday afternoon when Mrs. Louis A. Pamperin and Miss Pamperin were charming hostesses from three to six o'clock. The great room attractive in itself, was beautified by large bouquets and tall vases of chrysanthemums, featured in a coloring of pink, the large and the dainty button varieties being used. The serving table laid at one end of the room, was dressed with an exquisite embroidered cloth. It was further enhanced by a tall silver basket of the prevailing blossoms, tied with white tulle, and at one corner a cut eucalyptus holding blue taper.

Mrs. John P. Salzer was in general charge of the room and Miss Vera Greaney met the guests upon their arrival and directed them. Mrs. Harry Watkins, Mrs. Max P. Platz, Miss Bertha Hickisch and Miss Jeanie Hedeman alternated in presiding at the coffee urn and in serving the salad. Mrs. Walter Rose and Mrs. Howard H. Lundmark served at the ice table. These ladies were assisted by the Misses Ellen Salzer, Gretchen Langenbach, Nora Zeisler and Margery and Alice Platz. About one hundred and seventy guests called during the receiving hours.

MRS. EMMA OLBERG, 523 South Sixteenth street, was hostess Tuesday night at a surprise dinner party in honor of her son, Archie, and his fiancée, Miss Grace Forbes, who are to be married Saturday. The affair was also in compliment to the birthday of Mr. Olberg. The men guests were nearly all former members of the bachelor club, Mr. Olberg being the last but one to desert. Mr. James Taylor remained.

A prenatal shower in an overflowing basket was presented to Mr. Olberg, he having made complaints that the bride-elect was receiving all the attention. Now his hope box is filled, but nevertheless most practical and very suggestive of labor in performance in household duties under the new "yoke." The name cards were indicative of a shower in the form of an umbrella with falling rain, augmented by original snappy suggestions. Dr. John Henry Gatterdam was the toastmaster and it is said he carried off the palm for his witty remarks. It was altogether a very informal and most delightful occasion.

The place of the bride-elect was marked by a corsage bouquet and that of the bridegroom-to-be by a boutonniere. Smilax was strewn on the cloth and the flowers and the tapers were in pink. Bridge was played and music, both vocal and instrumental, was interspersed.

Mrs. Homer Hart and Mrs. Arthur Tausche entertained for Miss Forbes at a four o'clock coffee on Monday. One long table and several smaller ones were laid, which were prettily appointed with chrysanthemums and tapers of pink. A corsage bouquet marked the place of the bride-elect. The guests numbered twenty.

Mrs. James R. Hodge was hostess Wednesday at a small afternoon coffee which was given in compliment to Miss Forbes. Places were laid for ten, pink decorations featuring the table.

THE NEEDLECRAFT club and the Ladies' Aid society of the First Presbyterian church will give a shower Thursday afternoon at three o'clock at the church parlors. All interested are invited. The bazaar and supper will be held December ninth.

IN RECOGNITION of the world week of prayer of the Y. W. C. A. Mrs. H. C. McKesney and Mrs. C. S. Cone will be present at the mid-week meeting Wednesday night at the First Methodist church. The former will speak of the work of the late Grace Dodge, a national leader, and the latter of the local aspect of association work. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance. The invitation is cordial to all.

THE PASADENA dancing club, composed of some of the younger members of the Knights of Columbus, will give its first dance of the winter season next Friday night, November 17, at the N. of C. hall, corner of Fourth and Vine. It is said by the committee in charge that the dance will be conducted in the same manner as those of last season, which insures a pleasant series. Root's orchestra will furnish the music.

CARDS AND AN INFORMAL program will be enjoyed following the regular meeting of the Rebekkahs Wednesday night.

A SON WAS BORN to Mr. and Mrs. John Verman, 234 South Sixth street, November ninth, at St. Ann's hospital.

DR. EINER KEY, surgeon in chief at Maria hospital, Stockholm, Sweden, and Dr. Helling, surgeon in chief at a hospital in Kalmar, Sweden, have been visiting at the home of Dr. Adolf Gustafson for a few days. Dr. Key and Dr. Helling were invited to read papers at the meeting of the American College of Surgeons at Boston, Mass., in October. Since then they have attended a surgeons' meeting at Georgia, U. S. While in America they intend to visit the different medical centers. Dr. Key is a nephew of the noted Ellen Key, suffragette and literary leader.

MR. AND MRS. Edmond Rosier were pleasantly surprised by their children in their new home on the Mormon Coulee road on Sunday. Dinner and supper were served. Those present were the families of Messrs. and Mesdames Julian Servas, Joseph McIntyre, George Rosier, John Schmeitzel, Frank Rosier, Louis Herzigke, William Juharuk, William Rosier and Bernice Brummer.

MRS. L. L. URBANEK, 419 Redford street, entertained a number of friends at her home, 1241 Redford street, on Monday night. An enjoyable time was passed and at eleven o'clock a delicious lunch was served. The guests were Mesdames C. Siegel, Ray Pendleton and John Collins, and the Misses Mattie and Meyer Turley, and James, Helen and Cecelia Friehner.

A PRESENTIAL affair was given Monday night by Miss Esther Demke at her home, 1241 Redford street, in honor of Miss Edna Lee, who is to be a December bride. The decorations were carried out in chrysanthemums and the place of the bride-elect was marked by a corsage bouquet. Places were laid for thirteen.

SERVING SECTION No. 4, of the English Lutheran church will meet Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. E. Smith, 526 South Eighth street.

MISS RUTH PUTZNER entertained the members of the J. R. B. club Monday evening at her home, 129 South Seventh street. Daily refreshments were served. In the party were the Messrs. Eleanor Michel, Natalie Koenig, Eleanor Jankov, Maria Putzner, Gertrude Huss, Mattie Hedinger and Lucy and Emma Harder and Mrs. Gustafschult.

CHARLES RISTOW BUMPS GORDON CAR ON STATE STREET

Driver's Franklin Car is Demolished in Front End; No Injuries

Charles Ristow, 502 North Sixth street, driving east on State street Tuesday night ran into an automobile owned by Stanley Gordon, parked between Eleventh and Twelfth streets, police reported Wednesday. No injuries were reported.

Investigating the accident, police found that the Ristow machine was damaged to a great extent on the front end, while the Gordon car, pushed a distance of about 50 feet by the impact, was dented in the rear with possibly a wrenched frame. The frame of Ristow's car was bent.

Ristow claimed to the police that he had turned out to meet a car coming from the east, and in doing so ran into the Gordon car, which he claimed did not have a parking light burning. Gordon stated that the parking light had been left on when the car was parked, according to a police statement.

START CAMPAIGN FOR $21,000,000 FOR CHURCH WORK

Episcopal Program Fixes Budget for Work During Next Three Years

CHICAGO, Ill.—To awaken the conscience and intelligence of the people of the Protestant Episcopal church to the needs set out in the program adopted at the Portland general convention, thereby raising the average of regular giving throughout the communion, is the main object in view in the nation-wide campaign to be conducted wholly within the ranks of the church, according to a statement by Chicago headquarters of the denomination.

Results of the campaign in the three years now closing encourage church leaders in the belief that the ensuing three years will be equally successful, says the statement, quoting the secretary of the field department.

"In the eighty-eight dioceses of the church in the United States the work of informing our people of the convention program and explaining the educational methods to the leaders, already is going forward," continues the statement. "Our reports show enthusiasm and determination that will go for another big advance in the missionary, educational and social service fields."

The program, which fixed a budget of $21,000,000 for the next three years' work, will support 2,000 missionaries in America and throughout the world and carry on work of religious and social service to which the church is committed. A forward program also was adopted involving an additional $8,400,000, of which eighty-two per cent will be spent in the United States and its territorial possessions for hospitals, schools, new churches and community houses, with special emphasis upon work among Indians, negroes, mountaineers and mill workers, according to plans. Americanization and rural and industrial effort also come under the program.

An appropriation of $2,000,000 for denominational colleges and student work at fifty-five of the great secular institutions all over the land, is provided in the program. The budget is to be raised by quotas in the three years ending 1925.

When news that the light had failed reached here, the Margaret was ordered to the spot at full speed to restore the light and log horn signals on the rock, which lies directly in the route from St. Lawrence river ports and Sydney.

"LORNA DOONE" AT RIVOLI

Maurice Tourneur is the director-producer above all others who was best fitted to make a screen adaptation of the world famous novel,
"Lorna Doone," in the opinion of Thomas H. Ince.
Through this romance is of a time two and a half centuries gone,
"Lorna Doone" triumphantly outlives more modern literature," said Ince in commenting upon the finished production.
"By all tests, it stands today the best-liked and most widely read novel of great love and thrilling adventure.
It has, in fact, become a literary heritage of civilization.
"In the realm of motion pictures
it is fitting that Maurice Tourneur should have screened this classic.
He has been called the 'poet-producer.' He is more, for his is the genius that can combine in picture story the dramatic, the imaginative, and artistic detail with photographic narrative."
"Lorna Doone" opens at the Rivoli
today.

CASINO TODAY

"They Like 'Em Rough." Miss Dana's newest Metro photoplay, which is to be seen today at the Casino Theatre, has to do with a girl whose chief attribute is perversity.
She makes a point of going against authority, especially that of her aunt and uncle, in regard to the man she should marry. When she discovers that they have tricked her into an engagement with one of those nice young men with smooth hair and a smooth line, she forthwith leaves the house and puts into practice a sudden determination to marry the first man she met outside. And then the action begins.

PHOTOPLAY OF SOCIAL TRIALS

A photoplay dealing with the social trials of a young actress in a small western town where her company has been stranded is scheduled for opening at the Majestic theater next Thursday with Shirley Mason as the star. It is entitled "Lights of the Desert." It is described as a play of much daintiness and abundant heart-throbs.

VALENTINO AND BEVERSTEDT BROS. AT STRAND TONIGHT

Stars of the air assisted a screen star recently when Rodolph Valentino went to San Francisco to make the Harvard-Yale boat race scenes for his latest Paramount picture, "The Young Rajah," which will be on view at the Strand theater tonight.
When the company arrived in San Francisco, director Philip Rosen engaged Coach Ben Wallis, of the University of California, to aid in staging the race and coaching the contestants, and several members of the U.
of C. crew of 1922 to row the shell in the race staged for this sequence of the picture.

When the company returned to the Paramount West Coast studio in Hollywood to make the sequence showing the victorious oarsmen at a banquet celebrating their victory, the race heroes were engaged to come down to the studio and work in those scenes with Valentino.
As an added attraction, the famous Beverstedt Bros. Orchestra will play this feature picture.

DIPHTHERIA AND SCARLET FEVER IS FOUND HERE

Cases of Diphtheria and Scarlet Fever at Washburn

A total of ten cases of diphtheria and scarlet fever have been discovered in the city schools, according to a statement issued at the city health offices Tuesday afternoon. The statement is as follows:

"Three cases of diphtheria in St. James school, six cases of scarlet fever in Washburn and two cases of scarlet fever in the Webster school were reported and found within two weeks by the health department."

"Since these cases were reported, four additional cases of illness have come to the attention of the city health department. One of the cases was of a teacher in one of the local graded schools, and another of a boy who was sick Friday, Saturday and Sunday, and was in school Monday."

"A number of cases giving a history of having the disease in a mild form and getting back in school before being observed is known to have caused at least some of these cases. Three cases were found in the peeling stage by the supervisor and other nurses and a large number of exposures are known to have taken place in the rooms where these cases were found. In some cases the exposures were greater than others and we are asking parents to be patient where the children are sent home for this reason. Either where we find the child with a temperature, congested throat, no matter how slight, or where we know there has been a direct contact with a known case of the disease, the law requires isolation for at least ten days."

"Only in this way can we hope to prevent an epidemic by isolating the source of light cases and treating all cases of throat and symptoms of the disease as suspicious."

"In two of the homes where the patient is very sick other members give a history of slight indisposition or light cases previous to the development of very severe ones."

"We are very desirous of having the cooperation of physicians and parents to assist us in stopping the spread of this trouble. The schools where cases are known to exist are being gone over daily by the nurses. No matter whether the total number of cases of scarlet fever for the year is great or little the incidence for the summer months is always decidedly less than for the months of the school year."

MRS. C. V. PORTER OF VIRQUA BURIED MONDAY AFTERNOON

VIRQUA, Wis.—The funeral of Mrs. C. V. Porter, who passed away at her home in this city on Friday night, was held on Monday afternoon at the Porter home. Although Mrs. Porter had not been in good health for the past few years, her illness which resulted in her death was of but four days duration. Mrs. Porter was one of the pioneers of Vernon County and long a resident of Virqua. She is survived by the husband, Dr. C. V. Porter and son, Charles of Menominee.

The funeral of Mrs. Clara McCall Morgan who passed away at her home at Arco, Idaho was held at the Congregational church in this city on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30. Rev. Evans officiating. Clara McCall was united in marriage to J. E. Morgan of Arco, Idaho, a few years ago. Before her marriage she was a teacher in the schools of Vernon county and in the west. During her girlhood in this city she was prominent as a worker in the Congregational church. She is survived by the husband, father and three sisters, and many other near relatives.

Treasure Hidden in Ancient Wall.
In making way for a street railway in Canton, China, it was decided to tear away parts of an ancient wall which once surrounded the city. When kids were asked for the work it was found that there were several persons who were willing to do the work for the treasure that might be recovered from the masonry. They were allowed to proceed on this basis and the work was divided among them. The tradition that the wall was full of treasure proved true, and these contractors were adequately rewarded for their work.

COLLEGE CLUB HERE IS REPRESENTED AT THE STATE MEETING

Two Local Delegates Tell of Plan to Establish Nursery Schools

The La Crosse college club was represented this fall for the first time at the annual state conference of the Wisconsin Federation of University Women, being the youngest branch in the state. It was disclosed at this time that the La Crosse organization, though in its first year, boasts a membership equal in size to any in the state excepting Madison and Milwaukee. There are at present 169 branches of the organization in the United States, 11 being in Wisconsin. Mrs. Catherine Hayes and Mrs. Cameron Baldwin were delegates to the Madison meeting and their reports were of primary interest at the monthly meeting of the local organization held on Tuesday afternoon.

Of the matters taken up in the reports those of most interest were found in the address of Mrs. Bernard, the new national educational secretary. This address indicated the present activities of her office that are of great national and local significance. The national educational secretaryship was established because it is recognized that the chief component of college women is education. A summary of this work as taken from Miss Hayes' report follows:

Nursery Schools.
There is before the national organization at present the question of the establishment of nursery schools, which would provide for children from two to five. Their nutritional, physical, mental and moral condition is largely neglected. The national organization is urging the adoption of a provision for the training of children. It is hoped that some method may be provided to train mothers and workers for such schools.

Medical Supervision.
The study of medical supervision and opportunity for physical education in United States colleges is another task. It is hoped to establish a standard to be recommended to all colleges. Wisconsin was commended for its work in this field. A register of women who have the degree of doctor of philosophy and a file of the trained women of America is another proposal. A continued interest in the establishment and maintenance of scholarships and fellowships is another matter of importance. Curricula Adapted to Women's Needs.
It is proposed to make a fundamental contribution to the education of women by finding out whether the curricula are adapted to women's needs. Another present object is to analyze the industrial and professional fields to determine how great opportunities are there for married women to give a few hours each day.

The report of the international conference

SULPHUR CLEARS A PIMPLY SKIN

Apply Sulphur as Told When Your Skin Breaks Out

Any breaking out of the skin on face, neck arms or body is overcome quickest, by applying Mentho-Sulphur. The pimples seem to dry right up and go away, declares a noted skin specialist.

Nothing has even been found to take the place of sulphur as a pimple remover. It is harmless and inexpensive. Just ask any druggist for a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur and use it like cold cream.

OFFER COURSE FOR OFFENDERS AGAINST LAWS OF LANGUAGE

MADISON, Wis.—Student offenders against the laws of the English language will hereafter be given special instruction according to a new plan adopted by a committee organized by the Letters and Science faculty.

"It is a mistake for students to think the committee is 'hardboiled' for we take no policy of flightiness," said C. C. Batchelor, secretary of the committee to whom all cases of delinquency will be reported.

Five cases already have been sent to the committee although formal announcements advising this action have not as yet been sent to members of the faculty. Instruction will always be given individually to meet the needs of the students. Friendly cooperation on the part of the student body with the faculty in this work is the first aim of the committee in adopting and enforcing the new plan according to the committee.

Fur Farming on the Increase.
In the production and use of furs the United States leads the world. Sales for 1920 were about $100,000,000. In 1919 New York city alone did a gross business in domestic furs, counting import, export and handling, of $277,000,000. While demand has depleted our supply of fur-bearing animals, "fur-farming" is increasing, with the rearing of silver-black foxes as its most important branch.

The Buried Treasure of China.
While China's present mineral production is estimated at less than 1 per cent of the world's total output, the rapid development of her great mineral resources will go hand-in-hand with the extension of the 7,000 miles of railway now operating. For 1,540 miles more are under contract and some 7,700 miles are projected. This extension of mileage will open up a new age across the Pacific.

Lines to Be Remembered.

It is fine for quick relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and sores of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bitten feet, colds on the chest. INCREASED FUNDS ASKED IN BUDGET OF LABOR BOARD

Industrial Commission Applies for Larger Appropriation to Carry on Increased Work

MADISON, Wis.—The Wisconsin industrial commission submitted its budget to the state board of public affairs Tuesday calling for expenditures during the next two years of $238,840. In 1923-24 and $238,840 in 1924-25. These requests represent an increase from $302,570 spent in 1921-22 and $419,723 to be spent in 1922-23.

Included in the budget requests of the commission are fees totalling several thousand dollars that do not represent an appropriation. An increase in expenditures is asked in order to take care of the increased work of the commission.

Most of the costs are involved in administration of the workmen's compensation act.

Appropriations for the industrial commission are among the largest granted any state department, with exception of the state board of control, which operates the state charitable and penal institutions.

An appropriation of $17,610 to carry on its sanitary engineering work was asked by the state board of health in its budget requests to the state board of public affairs. This fund is used to protect water supplies furnished Wisconsin communities and to guard against pollution of streams.

What becomes of 30,000,000 cement sacks a year?

Practically 90 per cent of the 95,000,000 barrels of portland cement shipped last year was delivered in returnable cotton sacks.

To supply users of cement promptly, the industry must have about 200,000,000 sacks either on hand or in use.

The sack method of shipping is most convenient. There are four sacks to a barrel. Each sack contains 94 pounds of cement—a cubic foot. And a cubic foot is a handy volume in proportioning concrete mixtures.

When cement is shipped, the sacks are billed to the purchaser. When they are returned, they are bought back at the same price if they are in usable or repairable condition. This involves much work in checking, cleaning, sorting and repairing.

But in spite of the fact that every good cement sack is redeemable, 30,000,000 of the sacks shipped every year fail to come back—a loss of nearly $5,000,000 a year at present prices of new sacks.

To replace these "lost, strayed or stolen" sacks requires annually over 30,000 bales of cotton. It requires that the textile industry weave a strip of cloth 30 inches wide and 17,000 miles long. It means that 1,600 looms are kept working full time for a year.

Thousands of sacks returned to the cement mills for redemption are damaged, yet accepted for credit, if they can be repaired. This repair is done by the cement manufacturer at his own expense.

A medium sized plant shipping, say 1,000,000 barrels of cement a year, has to repair an average of 6,000 sacks per day from among those returned for credit. This keeps 6 people constantly working at rapidly operated electric sewing machines. In a million barrel a year plant, 22 people are constantly employed sorting, counting, repairing and otherwise caring for returned sacks so that they may again be used.

At the present time $30,000,000 would be a conservative estimate of the investment which the cement industry has in cotton sacks.

Sacks are one of the lesser, but nevertheless important items in the cement industry.

UNIVERSITY ASKS APPROPRIATION OF 6 MILLION A YEAR

Requests Less than for Past
Biennium Despite Increased Enrollment

BUDGET INCLUDES BUILDING
PROGRAM OF A MILLION

Revolving Fund of Million and Half Provided by University

MADISON, Wis.—The University of Wisconsin financial budget requests for the biennium 1923-24 and 1924-25, totaling approximately $6,000,000 annually, has just been prepared for submission to the state board of education at its meeting next week before being presented to the state board of public affairs.

The university requests, described as "modest," are less in total than those made for the past biennium, despite the increased enrollment. Included in the $6,000,000 proposed budget is a building program of approximately $1,000,000 and a revolving fund of over $1,500,000 which is supplied directly by the university and represents no cost to the taxpayers of the state.

A tentative request for $600,000 to commence construction of men's dormitories is said to be included in the budget to be submitted to the state board of education. This item may be withdrawn, it is said, because of the possibility that private capital might be interested in the building of dormitories for students.

Operation costs of the university, including the $1,500,000 revolving fund, total approximately $4,000,000 for each of the two years. This is only slightly higher than the cost for the past two years, although enrollment of the university has risen considerably.

No entirely new buildings are asked in the university requests, with the single exception of the proposed men's dormitory which is not definitely urged upon the legislature. Reconstruction of Bascom hall, alteration of Music hall and additions to the chemistry building are the principal construction projects suggested.

One of the interesting problems before the legislature at the coming session will be the consideration of ways to raise money to meet normal school and university costs. At the present time a general property tax supplies the needed funds to meet expenses of the institutions of higher learning.

Senator Herman L. Severson, administration leader in the upper house, is already planning to introduce a bill calling for a surtax on incomes over $5,000 to provide the larger portion of university and normal school costs. His attempt to have such a bill passed in the last session of the legislature, was defeated in the upper house.

FARM SHORT COURSE

MADISON, Wis.—Eighty-six short course students registered at the college of agriculture at the close of the first day of registration.

Registration consisted of 64 second year students and 22 first year students. Registration Wednesday is expected to swell the number to a larger figure, according to registration officials. Classes will begin Wednesday. The short course consists of two short terms of practical training in agriculture during the months when the work is most slack on the farm. Courses are given in animal husbandry, farm crops, soils, dairy husbandry, agricultural economics, agricultural engineering and other practical subjects.

Graduates of the course find positions in cow testing, farm management, farm foreman, and other agricultural lines. Many of the students return directly to the farm. Students from virtually every state in the union and from every county in Wisconsin have been enrolled in the course. Since it was established, 6,130 students have attended the short course.

Trees Treated Under Tents
A fumigating company is now at work on a task which will cover four months' time, in treating under tents all the fruit trees in a very large section in the southern part of California. With its tents and gassing apparatus the company last year treated 500,000 trees and effectively checked the ravages of citrus and black scale. The cost for each tree this year will be 33 1/2 cents, it is estimated, as compared with 36 1/2 cents last year. The process of pest extermination will come time by time, world-wide in its application.

COUNTY MUST HAVE VOTERS' APPROVAL ON BOND ISSUES

MADISON, Wis.—Before county boards may authorize payment of bridge construction costs by a bond issue they must obtain sanction from the electors by a referendum, P. E. Bump, assistant attorney general, held Wednesday. He advised V. M. Stohs, district attorney at Eau Claire, that his county board could not legally authorize a bond issue without a vote of the people.

"It is mandatory on county boards to provide the county's share of the bridge costs, but before the board has authority to call for a bond issue the question must be submitted to the electors," Mr. Bump said. "Provision for such payment may be made out of funds already in the county treasury and by direct taxation to raise them, and of course no referendum would then be necessary," he added.

"The people have the right to say whether payment is to be postponed and spread over a period of years by a bond issue."

OLD WAR HORSE WINS FROM CRACK MOUNTS AT NATIONAL SHOW

NEW YORK.—Moses, a spirited old war horse with no pedigree, who learned to jump on French battlefields, took the title of the best jumper among sixty crack horses in the National Horse show. He is a red chestnut and represented the cavalry school at Fort Riley, Kansas. In the competition last night Moses handily disposed of at least a dozen blue ribbon former title-holders.

Major J. A. Barry, who rode him, isn't sure of his age, saying it may be anywhere from 12 to 20.

WICHITA, Kan.—More than one thousand delegates and visitors have arrived here for the fifty-sixth annual convention of the National Grange which opened Wednesday and will continue till November 24.

Problems expected to receive primary consideration by the delegates involve financial legislation, rural credit legislation, a proposal that state and federal taxes be reduced to conform with the ability of farmers to pay and the opposition of the smaller banks to a system of branch banking, according to Ernest McClure, editor of the Kansas Grange Monthly.

It is probable that the Grange will take some official action as an explanation of its attitude toward the proposed ship subsidy legislation.

REMARKABLE RESULTS REPORTED COLDS DISAPPEAR OVER NIGHT

Simply Rub Muco-Solvent Salve On Chest and Throat to Relieve Congestion
PLEASANT—SAFE—EFFECTIVE

Everybody's doing it. From all sides are heard the praises of those who have tried the new treatment for colds. One and all delighted with its simplicity and effectiveness. Just a pleasant ointment, smells good, feels good, isn't greasy, doesn't stain the clothing, but it sure does the work. Colds of babies, children and adults give up and fade away.

To Check a Cold At Its Beginning.

Here's how it works: If your cold is only in the sniffing stage you can probably chase it away in an hour or so. Melt some Muco Salve in a spoon. Inhale the vapors—taking long deep breaths. Then, with finger, insert a very little bit in each nostril and breathe hard again. Repeat the operation fifteen minutes later. Simple. Isn't it?

Powerful, Yet Absolutely Safe.

Muco Salve's efficacy is due to its strength, which gives it an unusual vaporizing quality and wonderful penetrating power, although when used it the patient is not inconvenienced. In fact, in action seems very mild. This feature constitutes the difference between the formula discovered by the Muco-Solvent laboratory and the formulas or guesses of those who would imitate Muco-Solvent. Therefore, the real test is in results obtained, by which comparison Muco Salve most surely leads.

Ingredients From Nature's Workshop.

Nature has always provided the curatives used for human ills. Man has had to discover their uses. The Muco-Solvent laboratory, after patient experimentation, has produced this wonderful preparation. Among other ingredients is oil of turpentine, used for generations by family doctors in the treatment of colds. Menthol crystals from Japan have an antiseptic action upon the nasal membranes. The carrying agent of Muco Salve is highly refined petrolatum, the value of which is well known.

Children's Colds.

Muco-Solvent Salve is particularly adapted to the treatment of children's colds because of the fact that it is applied externally. Nor do children have to be coaxed to use it; they actually like it and soon learn to use it themselves. Which makes it a boon for the mother who realizes the necessity of keeping all members of the family well.

For children's colds insert in each nostril, rub freely on chest and cover with warm flannels. Be sure to keep the child's bowels open.

Don't Neglect a Bad Cold.

The proper treatment of such a cold begins with a purgative, a good dose of oil, enema salts, etc. Inhale the vapors of Muco Salve melted in a spoon. This opens the head so that when a little of the salve is applied in each nostril it vaporizes and thus soothes the inflamed membranes of the respiratory tract. At bedtime repeat this process; then open the pores of the chest by the application of hot towels, followed by a thick rubbing on of Muco Salve, covered with warm flannel.

Keep a window open all night. Great relief will be experienced by morning.

Beware Pneumonia.

If a bad cold does not respond to the above program, it is time to call the doctor sure enough unless you wish first to use the Muco-Solvent. This is an old, old medicine, used for many years by Dr. L. W. Griffin of Neenah, Wisconsin. It is a solution of antiseptics, a germicide, in the use of which the bacilli are killed and the accumulated mass of phlegm or mucous dissolved and expelled—hence the name, Muco-Solvent.

Being purely a vegetable compound this medicine has long been in family use and is of course, obtainable at nearly all drug stores. The price, we believe, 75c and $1.00.

AT ALL DRUGGISTS

Jar of Muco-Solvent Salve Only Costs 25 Cents—Contains Enough to Treat a Dozen Colds.

The use of Muco-Solvent Salve for colds is only one of a dozen things it is good for, therefore it is advised that a family size jar be kept in the house at all times.
